Summary

Operations and project delivery professional with 5+ years' experience across technology, healthcare, and professional services. I enjoy getting into the details of how things work, figuring out what could work better and turning ideas into practical improvements. My experience spans business operations, process improvement, project delivery, resource and capacity planning, procurement, supplier management, and organizational change, collaborating with people across all levels of a business to solve problems and keep things moving. I am naturally curious, comfortable taking ownership and particularly enjoy bringing structure to things that feel complicated or inefficient. Currently completing an MSc in Computer Science with Artificial Intelligence, with a growing interest in how technology, data and automation can make the way organizations work simpler, more effective, and better equipped for growth.
